

SEBASTOPOL CHARTER

A Waldorf-Inspired Public School since 1995

February 23, 2016

Dear Parent,

Thank you for entrusting us with your children every day, as we educate them for life. We also thank you for looking toward the school as a resource for your own inner renewal and support. Waldorf education is a response to a call of the heart. Our heartbeat becomes the pulse of our community.

We hope that you will find an equal calling of the heart to assist us in creating this campus for our future as we write to you today to share our enthusiasm for the School's building campaign for the new campus – Breaking Ground. There is no greater mission for our school than creating a unified, natural learning environment for our children.

We wholeheartedly endorse this campaign, which will serve the educational needs of your children and the children of Sebastopol and beyond for generations to come. It is so important for children to be held in a space where they are respected, nurtured, and cherished, and where childhood is appreciated and allowed to unfold in its own time. The need for an effective and compassionate form of education has never been greater, and Sebastopol Charter School goes a long way toward achieving this vision.

We've each made our own financial contributions and pledges, demonstrating our strong commitment to the new campus and all that it conveys. We believe that, together, our gifts will bring the next level of our dynamic and vital program to life.

Please join us in giving to the Breaking Ground campaign!

With appreciation for your support,
Chris Topham, Executive Director
